Our intention for the week is that this beautiful setting will inform our time together so that we are wrapped in a sensation of spaciousness, fluidity and ease.

By releasing ourselves from the constraints of a daily schedule, we allow the time and space for our creativity to flow.

Of course, there will be structured time with our teachers, but these offerings have been mindfully shaped to enhance and expand organic making from spirit and a sense of play. You don't have to worry about signing up for classes. The workshops will be available in a sequence and everyone will participate in each of them.

There will also be solo + group time, excursions, yoga, hiking and evening gatherings. We are beyond excited to see you there!

You have your own note to sound, and you are sounding it with greater power and beauty all the time. - Ursula Nordstrom
